Thoroughgood House Volunteer Day (October 4)

Students showed up ready to help care for the grounds at Thoroughgood House, even in rainy weather. Volunteers moved branches and other yard debris, cleared the garden area, and dug holes for new flowers. The work took teamwork: some students gathered and carried branches while others prepared the soil and helped clear the planting spots.

A Community Effort

The service day was a reminder that community spaces stay beautiful because people take time to care for them. By moving debris and preparing places for flowers, volunteers helped make the grounds tidier and ready for future planting. Thank you to every student and community member who pitched in!
